Education

Eliane Fischer is a partner at rothorn legal, an international dispute resolution boutique. She acts as counsel in cases involving complex international construction and engineering projects, oil and gas disputes, sales, supply, distribution and licence agreements, joint ventures and post M&A disputes.

Eliane Fischer studied at the Universities of Fribourg (bilingual [French/German] law degree with a specialisation in European law, 2004) and Grenoble (Diplôme d'administration et politique internationales, 2002). After obtaining a masters in international relations from the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva (MIA, 2006), she worked as a Case Lawyer at the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg.

Prior to founding rothorn legal, Eliane Fischer worked for more than ten years at major international law firms.
